

A Passion for Good Design

The quiet authenticity of impeccably designed products ensures worldwide acclaim. Good design improves with age, becoming a classic over time.

E. R. Butler & Co.

Get a handle on this expertise. E.R. Butler & Co. has cornered the market for fine architectural and decorative hardware, from replicas of 17th-century brass and glass Venetian doorknobs, French 18th-century gilt and chased escutcheons to wrought-iron drawer pulls and ultra-modern stainless-steel hinges. There's a good reason for such success. E.R. Butler President Rhett Butler's devotion to historically correct architectural hardware borders on the fanatical. Butler's expertise in contemporary architectural styles, construction technologies and security needs is equally impressive, as are the company's exclusive affiliations with some of the finest hardware manufacturers in the United States and Europe, including W.C. Vaughan of Boston, Maison Bricard of Paris and FSB of Brakel, Germany. Butler offers prototype development, engineering and fabrication; design research; antique conservation and restoration; custom sizes and 75 different patinations. With such dedication to design and craftsmanship, is it any wonder that leading architects and designers use only Butler hardware?
