Tumbler Series „Promenade“

design: Leonid Rath 2009

Around 1800 the publisher „Artaria“ edited a series of „Wiener Veduten“. More than 200 years originals or copies decorated the most important whereabouts of the Viennese society. Now they are slowly disappearing from the walls. The pictures show famous Viennese places or sights. What might not be seen at first sight are the numerous and partly witty people wandering along. Now they can promenade on your dining table.

The figures are fine hand painted in finely enamel technique and the tumbler has a classic shape that was very often used in the „Biedermeier“. There are eight variations for now.
